

Planning Your Legacy Bequest Intention Form

We understand the importance of ensuring your gifts are used in a way that reflects your values and intentions. Sharing your legacy plans with us helps us honor your wishes and express our gratitude during your lifetime.

We also understand that life circumstances can change. You may need to update or reconsider your plans in the future, and that's completely okay. Letting us know about your gift today does not create any obligation now or later. It simply allows us to express our gratitude and keep you connected to the work you're helping make possible.
